Breach of this Code of Conduct

If we believe this code has been breached, we will raise this issue with the Chair and the Chair will investigate (Chair of Board of Trustees, in the case of a Trustee, and Chair of the applicable Local Governing Body, in the case of a Governor); they will only use suspension/removal as a last resort after seeking to resolve any difficulties or disputes in more constructive ways.

Should it be the Chair that we believe has breached this code, another Trustee or Local Governing Body member, such as the Vice Chair will investigate.

The Seven Principles of Public Life

(Originally published by the Nolan Committee: The Committee on Standards in Public Life was established by the then Prime Minister in October 1994, under the Chairmanship of Lord Nolan, to consider standards of conduct in various areas of public life, and to make recommendations).

Selflessness – Holders of public office should act solely in terms of the public interest.

Integrity – Holders of public office must avoid placing themselves under any obligation to people or organisations that might try inappropriately to influence them in their work. They should not act or take decisions in order to gain financial or other material benefits for themselves, their family, or their friends. They must declare and resolve any interests and relationships.

Objectivity – Holders of public office must act and take decisions impartially, fairly and on merit, using the best evidence and without discrimination or bias.

Accountability – Holders of public office are accountable to the public for their decisions and actions and must submit themselves to the scrutiny necessary to ensure this.

Openness – Holders of public office should act and take decisions in an open and transparent manner. Information should not be withheld from the public unless there are clear and lawful reasons for doing so.

Honesty – Holders of public office should be truthful.

Leadership – Holders of public office should exhibit these principles in their own behaviour. They should actively promote and robustly support the principles and be willing to challenge poor behaviour wherever it occurs.

The Marches Academy Trust adopted this Code of Practice on the 4th September 2019. Members will sign and return this form by email every year. Trustees and Governors will sign the Code at the first full Trustee/Local Governing Body meeting of each school year.

I confirm I have no new criminal records (including convictions, bindovers, cautions, reprimands, and judgements) or any pending since my last DBS check was carried out or accepted by the Trust. If this is not the case, I have disclosed full details to the Trust.
